THE South-Carolina Gazette.

From Monday February 26th, to Monday March 5th, 1750.

HAPPINESS.

Quantuli natura indiget?

YOU bid me tell you what I crave:
I answer, Nought but what I have.
A chearful mate, in life to share
Th' extreams of pleasure and of care:
Three infant blessings, to beguile
My hours, and make my sorrows smile;
Enough to welcome every friend,
And bear me to my journey's end:
A liberal hand and chearful heart,
To give th' unhappy poor their part:
And (best of all) to crown the whole,
A mind content, and thankful soul.
How vain the things beyond our reach,
Which av'rice and ambition teach!
How oft unblest each envy'd state!
A villain may be rich or great.
Heav'n ne'er design'd by gold to show
The world its favourites below;
And honour's but an airy blaze,
Dependent on another's praise.
True happiness consists in sense,
Health, quiet, and a competence.
You own me right; but, not content,
You ask if this is all I want?
Not all: hind heaven indulge my pray'r;
Long, long my wife and children spare:
As years increase, improve the mind
With sense to charm and serve mankind:
With each capacity to please,
And give 'em virtue, health, and ease:
Save 'em from anguish and distress,
Or give me half, to make it less.
But still dispose my grateful mind
In ev'ry state to be resign'd;
In ev'ry change of good or ill,
May I be happy in thy will:
And, if from earth my joys thou bear,
May I reach heav'n, and meet 'em there.

Dr. Corbet, bishop of Norwich, his new year's gift to his son Vincent Corbet, at Eaton.

WHAT I shall leave thee, none can tell,
But all shall say, I wish thee well.
I wish thee, Vin, before all wealth,
Both bodily and ghostly health:
Nor too much wealth nor wit come to thee;
So much of either may undo thee.
I wish thee learning, not for show,
Enough for to instruct and know;
Not such as gentlemen require,
To prate at table, or at fire.
I wish thee all thy mother's graces,
Thy father's fortune, and his places:
I wish thee friends, and one at court,
Not to build on, but to support;
To keep thee, not in doing many
Oppressions, but from suffering any.
I wish thee peace in all thy ways,
Nor lazy, nor contentious days;
And when thy soul and body part,
As innocent as now thou art.
